ABOUT MIXTECO INDIGENA COMMUNITY ORGANIZING PROJECT

Founded in 2001, Mixteco/Indígena Community Organizing Project (MICOP) supports, organizes and empowers the indigenous migrant communities of California's Central Coast through improved access to health and community resources, community organizing, language interpretation, education, direct assistance, cultural promotion, and our indigenous-led Radio Indígena community radio station. MICOP offers a fast-paced, multilingual and multicultural work environment dedicated to carrying out our mission.

Summary

Program Summary

MICOP's Tequio Youth Group program mobilizes youth and adults toward advocating for sustained change in schools, workplace and communities through educational campaigns, participatory research, coalition building, and direct action. The program also focuses on indigenous pride and educational goals through meetings, workshops, visits to college campuses, and collaborations with other indigenous groups in the area.

Position Summary

The Tequio Group Co-Coordinator position is a team effort leading the Tequio Youth Group program in Ventura and Santa Barbara counties. Each Co-Coordinator will be responsible for the full manager responsibilities for one quarter (3 months) each year. During the other nine months the Co-Coordinator will work with the quarterly manager and other team members to support the program and bring the highest quality of service to the Tequio Youth Group program. Quarterly coordinators will meet with the incoming coordinator to impart essential information as described in the quarterly responsibilities to ensure a smooth transition each quarter.

The Co-Coordinator supports the development and implementation of a policy advocacy agenda working with and increasing the capacity of grassroots leadership, organizational stakeholders, and community allies. The Co-Coordinator of Youth Organizing should be firmly grounded in anti-racist/intersectional indigenous rights theory, have strong community organizing expertise, be excited at the prospect of growing with our organization, and welcome the opportunity to be a thought partner and team member to an exceptional staff. This position requires an individual who likes leading and working in a team, can maintain multiple responsibilities and can stay on top of information and tasks in a fast-paced organization.
